THEME

The ASEAN Steel Industry: A New Era of Global Competitiveness

The steel industry is slowly but surely emerging from the severe impact of the worst global recession since World War II. Steelmakers in ASEAN are looking forward to a better year ahead. Some of them are starting to reactivate their shelved investment projects. The march towards making the regional industry a competitive force in the global market will be forged with renewed vigour. The move towards more vertically integrated operations will continue. New blast furnaces, direct reduction plants and downstream facilities will be initiated to overcome the weak supply chain problems. It is the dawn of a new era for the ASEAN steel industry. Come and join us at this conference to share your knowledge, thoughts and experience.
